

Providing food and drink for your events

Our catering partners

Public safety, providing quality products and excellent service are critical to us and for these reasons we undertake rigorous vetting when selecting our catering partners, ensuring that products on offer at Olympia London are ethically and sustainably sourced from accredited suppliers and that our partners are able to provide the level of service expected by our customers.

This requires our catering partners to make significant capital investment in the service and facilities they provide and to undergo regular auditing of their food safety and hygiene standards. In return, our catering partners have sole rights to supply food and beverage products in the venue.

We understand that there may be occasions where you or an exhibitor wishes to bring in their own food and drink; application must be made to us well in advance of an event and if it is agreed, the regulations set out in the eGuide must be followed. Concession fees may apply in certain cases.

Please refer to the attached document 'Catering approval process' which explains our approval procedures.

Another life for your event's waste food

If your event has a food element, here is one simple way you can be more sustainable:

City Harvest is an organisation working in London to reduce food waste, by collecting it and redistributing it to local charities.

You can read about the initiative here

Food for fuel

Any separated food waste produced at our venue that cannot be consumed is converted into green energy at our anaerobic digestion plant.

Please help us by discussing your food waste requirements in advance of your event.

Goodbye plastic straws

As part of our drive to reduce plastic, our catering partners no longer offer plastic straws. A bio-degradable alternative is available on request.

Life Water

Levy Restaurants is just a few months away from being allocated a Life Water project in Africa.

The proceeds of sales of Life Water allow fresh water supplies and sanitation to be provided to villages in Africa and Asia.
