

Transforming Data Into Answers

Providing the clarity, command, and confidence to securely move your business forward

Innovation is a funny thing, in a cosmic sort of way. While it's driving your business forward, it's also exposing it to new risks which can really slow you down. Vulnerabilities increase, threat vectors multiply, operating a high-performing IT infrastructure gets harder. To ensure our organizations benefit from the latest connected technologies while remaining protected from the risks they introduce, all security and IT pros have to do is make sense of this teensy weensy paradox. If only it were that simple.

That's where Rapid7 comes in. Our solutions make your data more productive, unlocking the answers you need to deter, detect, and remediate attacks and vulnerabilities and optimize IT operations. How? It all begins with our researchers and developers around the world collecting data and serving it up to the community and our products. Project Heisenberg honeypots. Project Sonar internet-wide scans. The hundreds of thousands who participate in the Metasploit Framework. We have the data and threat intelligence to model attacker behavior and prioritize risk. This insight feeds our products and our platform; in other words, provides the answers you need to pwn that innovation paradox.
